Mr. McCauley returned the chair.

Mr. Haxall, one of the proxies of the Buchanan and Clifton-Forge Company, submitted a bill prepared by a committee appointed by the Board of Directors of said company, entitled, "A bill changing the name of the Buchanan and Clifton-Forge Railway Company to the James-River Railroad Company, and providing for the extension by said company of its line of road from Buchanan to a point at or near the city of Richmond, or to such point between Richmond and Buchanan as the means of the company may allow, with a branch to the town of Lexington."

THE LEE MONUMENT.—The Board of Managers to-day approach the people of this city in a direct manner for a contribution to the proposed monument to General Lee. We understand that at every house has been left an envelope endorsed with an appeal by the Board of Managers, and that the contribution of the family shall be enclosed. Richmond owes a debt of love and gratitude to General Lee which cannot be ignored, and to this family, we were going to say personal, appeal her people cannot safely turn a deaf ear.

The arrangement by which it was intended the envelopes shall be called in to-day by collectors failing to be perfected, the Board of Managers request that those who shall receive shall return them, with contribution or they may feel willing to give, to this office, or that of the Whig or State, or to their respective pastors, if inconvenient to deliver them at the office of the Board in the Capitol.

On this anniversary of the birth of General Lee let every man in Richmond give according to his ability.

It goes to the House, and will undoubtedly pass there if a direct vote can be obtained on it. The Proposed Reduction in the Price of Gas—The Other Side of the Question.

RICHMOND, January 7, 1878.

Messrs. Editors,—Having read several communications in the Dispatch lately relating to a proposed reduction in the price of gas, I beg space in your columns to say a few words on the other side of the question. Each of the writers intimates that no good reason can be offered against the proposition to reduce the price.

Entertaining decided opinions on the subject myself, I will endeavor as briefly as possible to state my understanding of the proposition, and the reasons which, to my mind, constitute an objection to the reduction proposed.

A member of the Council presented a preamble in which he stated that the gas-works, after paying all expenses, and also the entire cost of lighting the streets and public buildings, yield a large net revenue to the city, which is derived from the gas-consumers; and the member also offered a resolution that this required from said consumers an unjust proportion of the income from the works; and that therefore a reduction in the price of gas in the price of gas to private consumers.

If the premises are correct the conclusion of the member can hardly be disputed; but I invite an examination of the actual facts of the case, so as to enable us to judge fairly whether or not the premises are entirely reliable.

From an examination of the municipal reports for the year 1876 we find the value of the gas-works estimated by the Auditor at $1,000,000.

This I suppose to be the actual cost of the works to that time, and to represent the amount of capital invested in said works. Let us call it $1,000,000, which is far more than the actual cost.

Let us suppose that the works are valued at $1,000,000, and that the city pays for its general treasury for interest the sum of $80,000 per annum, and which, as a matter of course, in every calculation of revenue derived from these works, should be charged against them on the corporation ledger.

The reports show that there was expended for coal $30,010, for current expenses $80,387, and in view of the fact that a large part of the gas-works consists of buildings, hold-ers, and machinery, together with fifty miles of pipe, which are all subject to more or less decay, I think it is far below what ought to be allowed for annual depreciation.

In charge among the current expenses what is claimed as expended on construction—viz., $10,745 (being about one per centum on the cost of the works)—is also included.

This makes the annual expenditure by the city—viz.: For interest.....$ 80,000 For coal.....30,010 For expenses and pay-rolls.....80,387 For construction.....10,745 Total.....$151,145

From the reports of the Auditor for all sources—viz.: For delinquent gas-bills.....$ 918 For sale of gas.....49,258 For sales coal, &c.....9,256 For meter connections.....11 1/2 Total.....$160,582

Deficit.....$ 29,562

showing, therefore, that the gas-works do not, after paying all expenses, and also the entire cost of lighting the streets and public buildings, yield a large net revenue to the city, which is derived from the gas-consumers. Very far from it. For inasmuch as the gas-works, being owned and worked by the city, fell short by the sum of $29,562 of the amount they cost the city for their maintenance for the year 1876, it is clearly shown that this amount ($29,562) was the actual cost to the city for lighting the streets and public buildings, without an allowance of any kind for risk of capital over and above the amount of interest actually paid by the city.

In the next place we should endeavor to ascertain, is this a fair proportion of the cost to be paid to the gas-works? I presume that no gas company whose business it is to make and sell gas, and who would sell at $2.50 per thousand to the general small consumers, would hesitate a moment to sell to any one consumer whose consumption is over 20,000 cubic feet a year at $2 per thousand.

If so, the gas consumed in public buildings—viz., 2,361,000 feet—would cost.....$ 4,722

cost to be paid to the gas-works.....$ 4,722

the large expense attending the private consumption, such as cost of meters, and the expense of the gas-works, in this instance, of department, bill-keepers, and paper and printing, for fuel, (say $8,000). The gas-works, therefore, on that account, the gas-works ought to be furnished with 1,180 lamps at $20 each.....$23,600

The two items added make what the street-lamps and public buildings ought to cost—viz., $28,322—and therefore shows that the city is paying for the gas-works full allowance for all gas it consumes the works would still fall short to the amount of $1,238 of paying back the charges legitimately made against them.

As it may be charged, however, that my estimate of the cost of lighting the streets and public buildings is too low, I will mention that contracts have just been awarded in New York city for the four months ending April 30, 1878, which includes all the longest nights of the year, as follows:

South of Grand street, to New-York Gas Company, at $6 each, or $100 per annum; between Grand and Thirty-fourth streets, to Manhattan Company, at $6 each, or $100 per annum; between Thirty-fourth and Seventy-ninth streets (portion of), to Mutual Company, at $6.80 each, or $102.70 per annum; between Seventy-ninth and Forty-second streets (portion of), to Mutual Company, at $8 each, or $124 per annum; Twenty-fourth Ward, seventy-two lamps, to Yonkers Company, at $12 each, or $86 per annum.

Considering our peculiar facilities for manufacturing gas, resulting from cheap fuel, and the fact that we ought not to furnish it to the corporation for less money than private companies charge New York city?

But let us look at this matter in another light. The amount of gas turned out from the gas-works, as the report of the Superintendent, is in round numbers 79,647,000 feet, the cost of manufacture of which, as shown above, being the actual amount paid by the city, including interest, is $190,142, makes the actual cost of each cubic foot of gas turned out $2.39. Now, the report of the fact that the gas-supply department, bill-keepers, and the cost of manufacture and repair of meters, which I have estimated at the low figure of $13,000 a year, is expended almost solely on account of the gas-works, makes the actual cost of each cubic foot of gas turned out $2.89 as the net cost of every thousand feet manufactured the private consumer should pay to the city of Richmond (which in its corporate capacity takes all risk of loss of a capital of $1,000,000 invested in the works) the sum of $2.89 per thousand, or $28.90 on its actual net cost as above?

I will present the matter in still another form. If a very large proportion of the expenses attending the gas-works are incurred for the sole purpose of securing a return to the private consumers, is it not fair that the price of gas to the city for all its purposes should be at least twenty-five per cent. less than the amount paid by private consumers? If so, we find that in round numbers 80,000,000 feet of gas is consumed, one fourth of which is consumed by the city, and the remainder by private consumers.

The 60,000,000 feet consumed by private consumers at $2.50 would yield.....$150,000

The 20,000,000 feet consumed by the city at $2.50 would yield.....$50,000

Less twenty-five per cent.....12,500 37,500

Total receipts from gas would be.....$187,500

Total receipts from water and meter connections.....10,406

Total receipts.....$197,906

Now, as the actual cost of manufacturing this quantity is $190,142, where is the margin upon which to reduce the price to private consumers? Only $7,764, with the rate at $2.50 per thousand, to private consumers!

Now, Messrs. Editors, having shown, as I trust, to the satisfaction of your several correspondents that there are reasons, and good ones, why the price of gas, under existing circumstances, should not, and in fact cannot, be reduced in justice to the already suffering and needy private owners, upon whom will fall the main burden of supplying the $30,000 deficit in our revenues should the reduction take place, I will cordially unite with them in demanding of the Committee on Light that on and after January 1st they shall introduce such measure of economy in the management of this department (assisted, as we have the right to demand they shall be, by the most rigid frugality in the use of gas in the public buildings and street-lamps) as will be necessary to furnish the streets and police stations, at the city's tables and the markets, that the private citizen exercises in his private consumption.

Let these things be done, and the private consumer will soon be enabled to share in the benefits resulting from a largely decreased cost in its manufacture, which can only be effected by a reduction in price properly made.

L. T. C.

Editors Dispatch: As you are so kind as to make mention of nuisances about the city I beg leave to call the attention of the proper authorities to one that is, in my opinion, of the greatest in the city to those who ride horseback or drive through the streets. At several points the streets are strewn with horse-droppings and the waste-pipes from steam-engines come under the pavement into the gutters and throw the
